We offer specialist physical, psychological, social and spiritual care to those with life limiting illnesses. Our focus is on quality of life and respecting the uniqueness of each person. The cost of running the hospice is over £2.4 million, a large part of which comes from the generous support of local companies, groups and individuals throughout the county.

There are over 2.5 million people living with cancer in the UK, and this is set to grow to almost 4 million by 2030. Cancer is not always life threatening, but it is always life changing; regardless of the diagnosis, life will never be the same again. Macmillan Cancer Support are here to help everyone with cancer live life as fully as they can, providing physical, financial and emotional support. We help people make sense of their diagnosis, guide them through treatment and provide help and support on every aspect of life.

Helen & Douglas House cares for local terminally ill children and their families at the hospice and at home. We provide medical, emotional and practical support, helping families deal with the implications of living with a child who will die prematurely, so they can make the most of their time together. As a charity we mostly rely on donations to support our families and we cannot do this without your help.
